

think of ~~the value added.~~

BILL

Start >

HILLARY

This is my campaign, not yours, mine.

BILL

And how is your campaign going?

If what I'm looking at here is your campaign,
your campaign is not going to win.

HILLARY

We're strapped for cash is all.

BILL

You're chalking all your troubles up to the money,
but you know
and I know that the money is not the problem — you're only making it about money so that you don't have to make it about the real problem, which is

HILLARY

What — Mark?

BILL

No.

You.

HILLARY

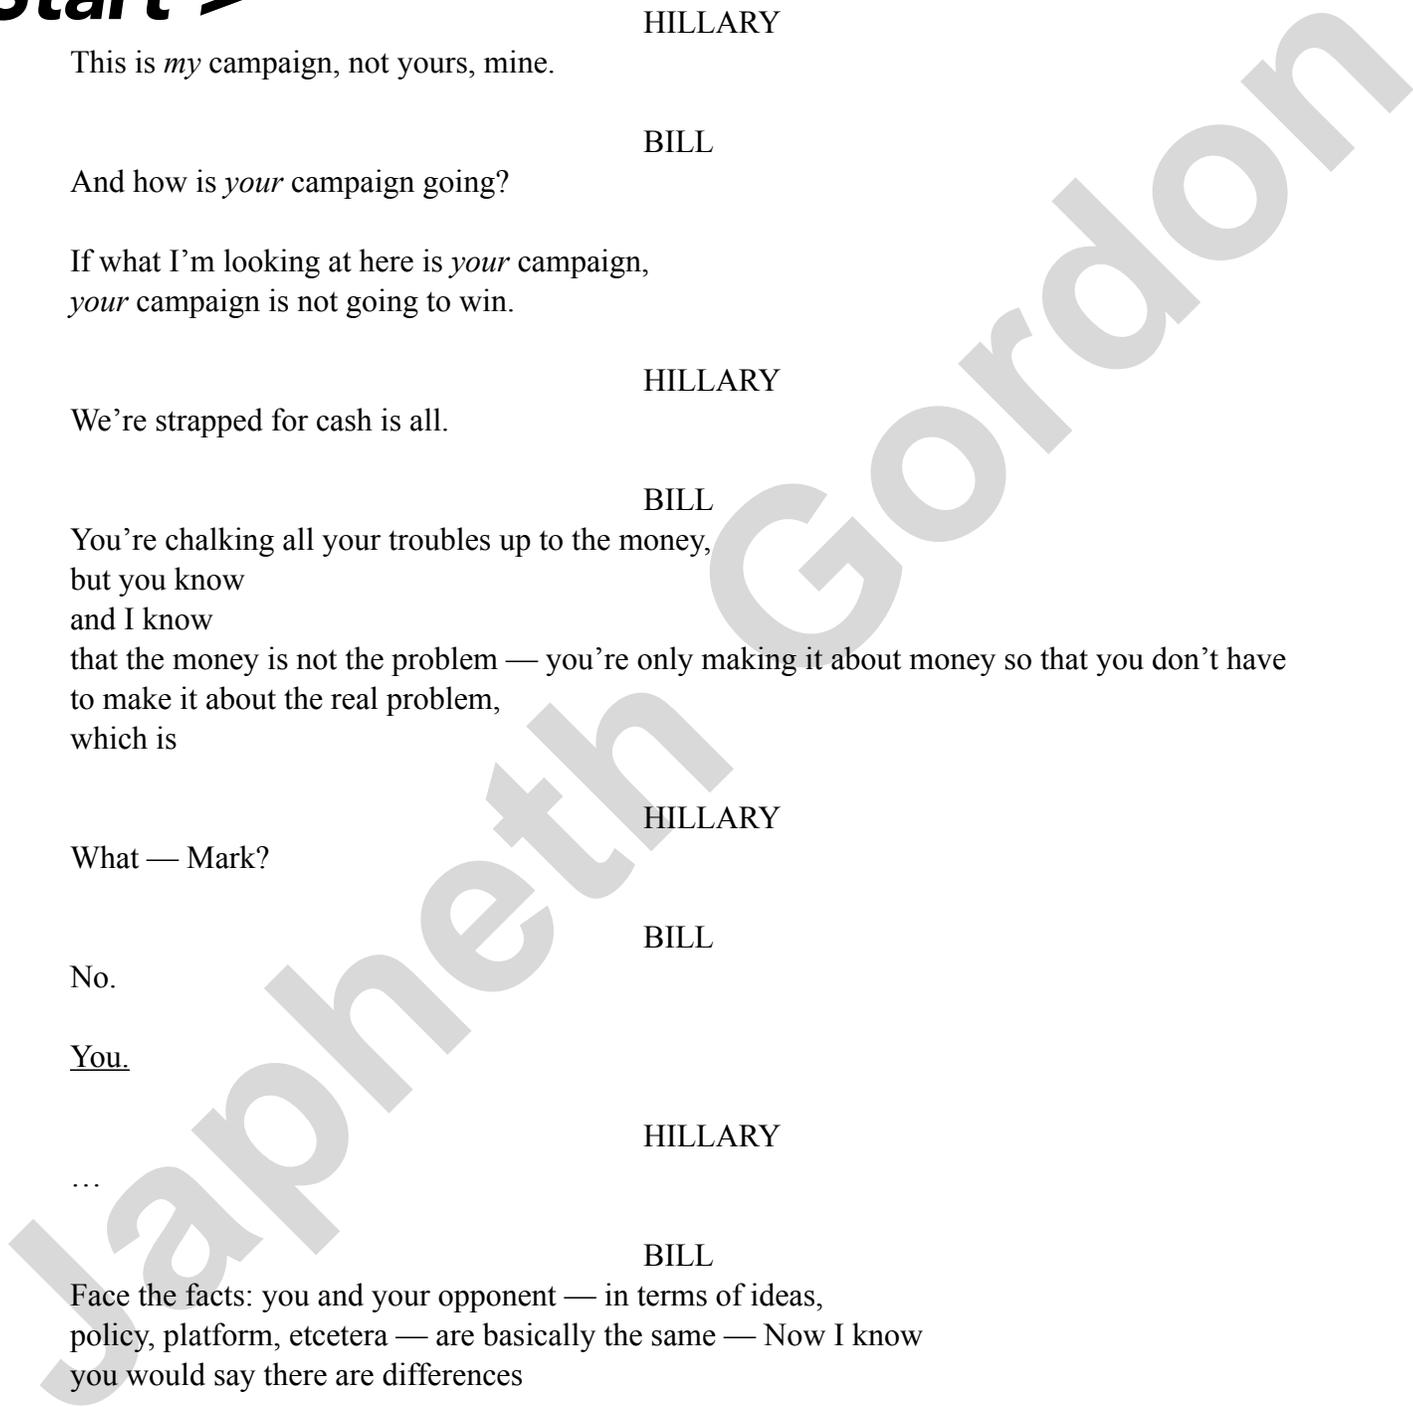

...

BILL

Face the facts: you and your opponent — in terms of ideas, policy, platform, etcetera — are basically the same — Now I know
you would say there are differences

HILLARY

I would

BILL

but most people — almost all people —
would not be able to tell you where you two differ in terms of etcetera etcetera — they have no idea.

Right now — and really this is what it comes down to — you know it, I know it, and you know I know you know it:
it comes down to personality.
That's it.

Who do they like: you or him?

And sure, people like you, but not enough.
Not nearly as many as like him —

HILLARY

but

BILL

you don't like that

HILLARY

I also disagree with/ the —

BILL

of course you disagree with the premise of the — This is your problem,
your little blindspot

HILLARY

I have no interest in playing this as some likability contest.

BILL

Obviously.

End

HILLARY

...

BILL

But if you don't want to play it that way, fine.
then at least let me play it that way so you don't have to.
I can do all the things you don't want to do,
I can —